St. André International Center for Ethics and Integrity

Intensive Fall Seminar in the Provence Occitane

Ethics Educators Workshop

22 - 26 October 2026 ● France

Seminar objective

Building forth on the Ethics Education Program of UNESCO, this workshop is designed to enhance the educational skills and abilities of ethics teachers. We explicitly invite academics who soon will start, or have just started, teaching ethics. However, experience has shown that very senior ethics educators also find this workshop to be very stimulating and helpful.

Instructional approach

Whereas internationally renowned ethics educators will introduce the themes, the core of this seminar will be a sustained conversation among all participants, sharing methods, experiences and innovative ideas about 21st century ethics education. Each participant is encouraged to prepare a short presentation, which may cover a completed project, an upcoming teaching assignment, or any other ethics education related endeavor that can spark discussion. For each presentation, ample time will be set aside for an in-depth discussion. Registration is limited to 20 participants.

Teaching Staff

Jos Welie, JD, PhD, President of the St. André International Center for Ethics and Integrity (France) and Professor of Interdisciplinary Normative Science at Maastricht University (Netherlands) (Seminar Director) ● Bert Gordijn, PhD, Professor and Director of the Institute of Ethics at Dublin City University (Ireland)) ● Angelika Krebs, PhD, Professor of Practical Philosophy, University of Basel (Switzerland) ● Linda Scheirton, PhD, Professor Emerita of Health Care Ethics, Creighton University (USA)) ● Henk ten Have, MD, PhD, Research Professor at the Faculty of Bioethics of Anahuac University (Mexico).
